

Whisper Weekend Reminder

Good Afternoon,

Week one is now in the books, so this is the first of eight Whisper Weekend Reminders you will be receiving. The reminder is a way to update you on the progress of the program and keep the program fresh in your mind. This way over the next few days, it will be easier to remember and remind one another to Whisper their frustration rather than vocalizing it and creating a negative environment.

The Whisper campaign information below is collected and tabulated as game sheets come in and email or voice complaints are received. As you can see, game sheets don't always make it to us very quickly. Currently, we have only received about 66% of the game sheets from last weekend. Therefore, the information we are providing below is only a snapshot.

This week we completed the two Conflict Resolution Training webinars for Officials. Although we had technical difficulty for much of the first one, the second class went very well. We had good dialog with the officials who attended

This week we have two webinars set up for the Conflict Resolution Training for Coaches. We also have one Conflict Resolution Training for Parent webinar for Friday and another for the following Monday.
